

ENG3250G: MADNESS & LITERATURE

Madness is a subject of literary and cultural fascination from Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde to Fight Club. But what do people with mental illness have to say about Madness? This new course examines the relationship between mental health and storytelling from the perspective of those with lived experiences of mental illness, including Sylvia Plath, Ivan Coyote, Joshua Whitehead (Oji-Cree), and Esmé Weijun Wang. Sign up to discuss Mad literature by Mad authors!

Please note this class will not be available every year.

Winter 2025
English and Cultural Studies Dept
Huron University College

Prerequisites: 0.5 First-Year English credit
This is an elective course for English and non-English majors.
All are welcome!

Please contact sarah.blanchette@uwo.ca for further details.