Increasingly, employers explicitly require that post-secondary graduates demonstrate competencies in research and written and spoken communication, and that prospective employees are able to communicate convincingly using not just general communication principles but also disciplinary conventions. In MOS 2299F, Professional Communications, students will develop these competencies in a participatory and collaborative classroom setting. The course will cover foundational topics such as the principles of rhetoric, effective research practices for business, designing and delivering professional presentations, and genre-specific writing. Through readings, discussion, and individual- and team-based research and communication assignments, students will become confident, credible, and effective communicators with strategies that will follow them through their programs and beyond.
