CGS 1022: Introduction to Globalization
This course introduces and critically examines dominant approaches to understanding human interconnection at a global scale, and provides an interdisciplinary overview of various trends attributed to globalization.

Learning Objectives
This course asks students to think critically about how global-scale dynamics shape the context in which humans live their lives, solve problems and seek change. To this end, we will study varied and contrasting approaches to understanding globalization, paying particular attention to the assumptions each makes about social, economic, political and cultural life. Students will learn to distinguish among these different approaches to understanding globalization, different definitions of globalization, and to identify the strengths and weaknesses of each.

Class discussions sparked by our course readings, lecture materials, films and your independent research projects give students a chance to practice how to engage ideas, arguments and case studies analytically. The written assignment provides experience with text-based research at the university level, and written feedback will assist you in refining and developing your skills as an analyst.

Class Methods
This course is taught through a combination of lectures and focussed discussions. Dr. Russell will provide discussion questions for specific readings and films as the course moves along. These themes and discussions, along with the course readings, will serve as the basis for the final examination.

Required Readings: Journal Articles and Books
Required readings for this course are listed in the weekly schedule given below. They include journal articles noted for each class meeting which are available electronically through the Western library system. In addition, we are reading these five books available at the Western bookstore:

Hardt, Michael and Antonio Negri. 2012. Declaration. Allen, Texas: Argo Navis Publishing. (This title is not in the Bookstore, but available in full at this link: https://antonionegriinenglish.files.wordpress.com/2012/05/93152857-hardt-negri-declaration-2012.pdf)

Evaluation in CGS 1022

Directed Response Essay and Bibliography: Global Mobility, Community and Labour 35%
Due: October 25 in class.

Directed Response Essay and Bibliography: Globalization and Altermodernity 35%
Due: December 6 in class.

Final Exam 30% scheduled by the Registrar during the December exam period

Your Assignments in CGS 1022: Directed Response Essay and Bibliography

You will prepare two research papers, each one based on course readings. Each paper will be 6-8 pages in length.

What is a ‘Directed Response Essay and Bibliography’?

These are discussion papers intended to help you develop research and analytical skills, to learn to engage useful ideas from scholarly sources, and to encourage your comfort with writing about your insights. You begin each paper with the assigned course readings, which you use to launch your own research into a topic, case or issue raised by the original reading. You then take this research and prepare a brief case study or discussion based on what you have learned in your research. Each paper is directed by the thematic description given on the assignment sheet that will be available on our OWL page.

The bibliography is a 10 item (or more) bibliography presented in Chicago style, using the citations specified for in-text citations. For the final presentation of your work, five (5) of the items must have brief annotations which summarize the work.

Presentation of Each of Your Assignments

All assignments must be typed (printed), double spaced, in a font no smaller than 12 point, the pages must be numbered (exclusive of the title page which has no number) and you must include a cover page displaying only your name, student number, course number and section, instructor’s name and date. All bibliographic references must use Author/Date Chicago style using in text citations (no footnotes), and references in your paper must use in text Author/Date citations.
CGS 1022 Final Exam
You will write a two hour exam at the end of the term based on that term's readings, lectures, films and discussions. The exam format includes short answers and short essays. It is your responsibility to find out when and where the exam is held.

Class attendance is required to pass the exam, as films, lecture material and discussions will figure prominently in the exam.

Your instructor will bar you from writing the final exam if you have more than five unexcused absences from class meetings.

Tips for Getting the Most of Your Readings
Centre for Global Studies courses characteristically require you to read and compare a wide variety of types of scholarly work. This means you need to learn to identify the key arguments and assumptions in each work you read. This, further, means that you need to keep track of these key points from each work. The easiest way to do this is to create a page of notes for each work you read, perhaps using a kind of template in which you record the main thesis of the journal article or book chapter (in your own words), list each argument (or assumption the author makes) in sequence (with corresponding page numbers), record your own responses.

When you pick up a work to read, one of the most important steps is to develop an initial impression of the work: what is this article or book chapter about, and how does the author organize the overall presentation? The easiest way to do this is to perform the following steps:

- Read the title
- Read the abstract
- Scan the conclusion
- Read the headings or subtitles

Taking these steps before you read the item will help to keep you on track as you read.

One final tip. The readings in this course are challenging, and probably not everything you read in each will make perfect sense right away. And that’s the point: challenge yourself to keep reading even when you are not sure you ‘get it’. Just keep reading, through and beyond those points you are not quite sure you understand.
