

Job Title: Huron University Choral Scholar

Start Date: September 2021

End Date: April 17, 2022

Supervisor: Mr. Sharang Sharma

Hours per week: ~5.

Rate of pay: $500/term.

Job Overview

University Choral Scholars will be expected to rehearse with, and sing in, the Huron Chapel Choir. This choir consists of all voice types and experience levels. Choral Scholars are expected to take a leadership role in consistent attendance, learning their music in advance, and actively maintaining a welcoming and open community of singers. During each academic term the Choir sings on Sunday mornings, at up to 5 Evensong services per term, special University Events, and at termly concerts. Traditionally, choristers have also volunteered to lead monthly Compline services and Morning Prayer.

The choir's principal venue is the St John the Evangelist Chapel at Huron. Students of all faiths and religious backgrounds are encouraged to spend mindful time in this welcoming space of collegiate style. The choir upholds the chapel's values of openness and worldliness that reflect in the composition of singers and the repertoire.

In addition to the termly remuneration, Choral Scholars are offered lessons in singing, music theory, and sight-reading. All choristers can also participate in a professional, musical residencies and a recording retreat in the summer of 2022 to share some of the choir's work over the academic year.
