English 1042E (Section 551): Literature and Cultural Representations

Course Description

This course introduces students to a wide range of styles, genres, and forms of narrative. It features canonical authors alongside popular contemporary texts in traditional and non-traditional forms of expression to "explore how our world and our lives are formed and informed by the stories we tell." Students will engage with literary and cultural productions within their socio-political context and learn how to situate texts within their historical and geographical setting with specificity and nuance.
