Course Description (from Calendar):
Combining the study of classic literature with works of current cultural importance, such as graphic novels and film, this course explores how our world and our lives are formed and informed by the stories we tell.

Course Learning Objectives
- Improve critical reading and writing in ways that will enable success in a wide variety of University courses
- Further appreciation of diverse cultural productions and practices
- Develop an interdisciplinary perspective on a variety of narrative media: for example, the poem, the novel and the film
- Become capable of identifying, analyzing and interpreting basic narrative elements, such as plot, character, point of view, theme, setting, imagery, diction, tone, figures of speech, and tropes
- Explore a wide range of forms of creative expression
- Write logically and persuasively in fluent, standard English using the appropriate conventions for scholarly-critical writing
- Design strong thesis statements and structured arguments in persuasive essays
- Learn to document essays using MLA format
- Evaluate the relevance, reliability, and usefulness of research sources, including those obtained through the Internet
- Integrate outside research materials and references to the original text into an essay through use of quotations and paraphrases

Description of Class Methods
- Classes will consist of lectures and discussions based on weekly readings. Thus, students should come to class with their textbook, having read the work scheduled for that day, and prepared to participate.
- Students are expected to turn off their cell phones and other electronic devices during class. Any student who distracts the instructor or other students in class by cell-phone usage, reading or sending text-messages, etc. will be asked to leave the classroom; repeated disruption of the class may result in expulsion from the course.
- Students are encouraged to come to office hours or if that is not possible to make other arrangements to discuss course material, ideas, assignments and exercises.

Writing Assignments

In the writing assignments, the student will respond to one of several given questions, based on the readings and lecture material. The purpose of the writing assignments is for students to develop their understanding of some key concepts in narrative analysis, such as action, scene, character, agency, & purpose, as well as close readings of figurative/poetic language (metaphor, symbol, etc.). Selected topics will be provided in advance.
Mid-Term Exam
The mid-term exam will test students’ knowledge of course material to date. It may include factual short answer questions, and other short answer questions involving analysis of figurative language and narrative elements.

Winter Term Research Paper
A traditional research paper (1000-1500 words) on selected topics given at the beginning of the Winter Term. Leading up to the final draft of the paper, students will engage in research workshops and produce preliminary concept maps and annotations of their ideas and research guided by Huron Associate Librarian, Colleen Burgess.

Attendance and Participation
Attendance is required. If you miss more than six hours of class meetings (the equivalent of two weeks of class meetings), your attendance & participation grade will automatically be cut by 5%. If you miss more than nine hours of class meetings, you will forfeit the grade entirely. Participation means having completed the readings and being prepared to discuss them in class or on the OWL forum.

- Students must pass both term work and the final examination in order to pass the course. Students who fail the term work are not allowed to take the final examination. Students who fail the final examination (regardless of their term work) automatically fail the course.

Late Policy
All assignments are due by the end of class on the due date and should be handed to the instructor personally. It is the student’s responsibility to ensure that the instructor receives the essay.

Late assignments will be penalized at the rate of 2 marks per calendar day until the instructor receives the essay. Normally, late assignments will receive a grade but no detailed commentary. After 7 days, the assignment will not be accepted and a mark of 0/F will be awarded.
